

Hello my name is Dylan Hart and I am a software developer living in Austin.

I got my start programming in 2009 in college, where I studied Java and C++, and earned a 3.9 GPA. In 2010 I started building my own blog for fun and eventually in 2011 I stopped going to college so I could freelance full time.

After doing that for three years I decided to find a developer position with a company.

Overall I have more than 6 years of software development experience, between college, freelancing, and working.

www.dylanhart.net/portfolio

Thanks!